

Photo by Heidi Bohan

Male and female flowers form drooping seed clusters that persist.

Photo by Heidi Bohan

Photo by Heidi Bohan

Photo by Heidi Bohan

This evergreen sedge can occur singly or in dense clumps, and grows 2'-5' tall.

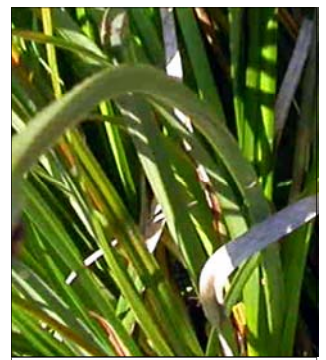

PNW Native Plant
PPNC: 400

Slough Sedge

Carex obnupta

© Starflower Foundation 2006

Flower stalks are thick and triangular.

Leaves are rough and firm with a crease down the middle.

Tree
Shrub
Ground cover
Forbs/ Grass
Forest
Prairie Meadow
Wetland Riparian

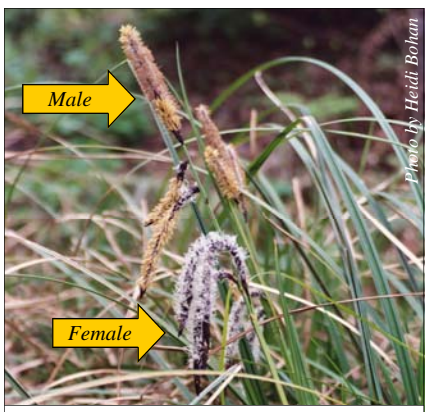

Photo by Heidi Bohan

Male and female flowers form drooping seed clusters that persist.

Photo by Heidi Bohan

Photo by Heidi Bohan

Photo by Heidi Bohan

This evergreen sedge can occur singly or in dense clumps, and grows 2'-5' tall.

PNW Native Plant
PPNC: 400

Slough Sedge

Carex obnupta

© Starflower Foundation 2006

Flower stalks are thick and triangular.

Leaves are rough and firm with a crease down the middle.

Tree
Shrub
Ground cover
Forbs/ Grass
Forest
Prairie Meadow
Wetland Riparian